VII. Housing First

Housing First-oriented programs are low or no barrier and client-centered, emphasizing client-choice. Housing is not viewed as a reward or incentive for achieving specific goals or participating in a specific program, but as necessary to help a family or individual stabilize and meaningfully access services, which are offered as needed on a voluntary basis. In practice, this means that programs connect participants to permanent housing as quickly as possible with few to no preconditions, behavioral contingencies, or other barriers at enrollment or throughout the program.

Health and Safety Code Section 50220.5(g) mandates that all recipients of state homelessness, funding shall comply with Housing First as provided in Chapter 6.5 (commencing with Section 8255) of Division 8 of the Welfare and Institutions Code.

By selecting components below, I hereby acknowledge the proposed project will comply with Housing First, as noted in the Health and Safety Code Section 50220.5(g).

Access to programs is not contingent on sobriety, completion of treatment, or participation in services.

Applicants are not rejected on the basis of poor credit or financial history, poor or lack of rental history, criminal convictions or behaviors that are interpreted as indicating a lack of "housing readiness".

People with disabilities are offered tenancy that includes special physical features that accommodate disabilities, reduce harm and promote health and independence among tenants.

Applicants are provided with supportive services that emphasize engagement and problem solving over therapeutic goals.

Participation in services and programs are not a condition of permanent housing tenancy but are offered to clients.

Tenants have a lease and all the rights and responsibilities of tenancy.

Substance use in and of itself, without other lease violations, is not considered a reason for eviction.

Housing providers accept referrals directly from shelters, street outreach, and other parts of crisis response systems frequented by vulnerable people experiencing homelessness.

Funding promotes tenant selection plans for supportive housing that prioritize eligible tenants based on criteria other than "first-come-first-serve", including but not limited to, the duration or chronicity of homelessness, vulnerability to early mortality, or high utilization of crisis services.

Service providers employ evidence-based practices for client engagement that emphasizes housing goals and plans.

Services are informed by a harm-reduction philosophy that recognizes drug and alcohol use and addiction as part of tenant's lives, where tenants are engaged in nonjudgmental communication regarding drug and alcohol use, and where tenants are offered education regarding how to avoid risky behaviors and engage in safer practices, as well as connected to evidence-based treatment if the tenant chooses.
